FAST MAIL TRAIN KILLS MAMIE NESSLER AT CROSSING

TRIED TO CROSS TRACK; CONFUSED

FATAL ACCIDENT SEEN BY CROWD OF PEOPLE

WAS ON WAY TO A PICNIC

Ribs Crushed and Well Known School Teacher Dies on Way to Hospital
in Ambulance this Morning

Confused by the sudden starting of a freight train which was standing partly upon the street, Miss Mamie Nessler, a school teacher, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Nessler, 1534 Berlin street, ran in front of the incoming C. M. & St. P. fast mail train at 10:30 this morning at the Mill street crossing and received injuries from which she died in a few minutes without regaining consciousness. The impact of the engine crushed her ribs, puncturing her lung, and seriously bruising her head and body, causing almost instant death.

Mamie Nessler, with a party of young women friends was on her way to the North side Milwaukee road depot to take the Southern Minnesota train for Hokah, where they were to spend the day picnicking. She carried a large hamper of eatables, as did several of the others. When she reached the crossing the caboose end of a freight train was standing upon the track, partly blocking the crossing. When this train began to move away, Miss Nessler hurried around the end of the caboose toward the station platform. Witnesses say she ran directly onto the passenger track, and, being confused, evidently did not notice the mail train rushing down upon her from behind.

Tossed by Train

The next instant the cylinder heads struck her, tossing her into the air. Her body fell between the passenger track and the station platform, a space a couple of feet wide, and the train did not pass over her body.

Shocked witnesses rushed to her aid. She called a name as they reached her side, which they could not understand, then lapsed into unconsciousness. She was lifted to the platform and a hurried call was sent for a physician and an ambulance. The girl's parents were notified and her mother and father rushed to the scene. Mr. Nessler, running all the way from the La Crosse Plow works, where he is a polisher, to the North side depot.

Physician Summoned

Dr. C. J. Egan was summoned and hurried to the North side, but meanwhile the ambulance had arrived, after a half hour's delay, and started for the South side with the injured girl. She was taken to the office of Dr. Egan, and as he had not returned, was hurried to the La Crosse hospital. Dr. Egan hurriedly returned to the hospital. He announced that the wounds had caused almost instant death, and that the young woman had expired in the ambulance on the way to the South side. The punctured lung was the direct cause of death, the physician said. A large wound was also made upon the victim's head and other bruises and abrasions about the body were noticeable. A stream of blood flowed from her side where the ribs had been crushed.

A distressing scene followed the accident, the score or more of young friends of the victim, and her parents, besides an enormous crowd of spectators, blocked the platform, where she was placed, awaiting the ambulance, and for forty minutes the mobning of friends and relatives and the presence of the crowd created a heart-rending scene.

Was Popular Girl

Miss Nessler was one of the most popular young women on the North side. She has been teaching school in the town of Burns, four miles from Bangor, and returned Wednesday to spend her vacation with her parents and friends here. Last evening she attended an entertainment at the M. E. church at which the arrangements for today's picnic party were completed. She was of a sunny disposition and was the life of social gatherings.

The Engineer's Story

J. Maloney, engineer on the train which struck Miss Nessler, says he saw her running along in front of the train, in the middle of the tracks. He says he blew the whistle sharply three times, and instantly applied the air, but could not stop the heavy train in time to avert the accident. Mr. Maloney says he thought the body was carried under the train when struck, as he could not see her after the engine struck.

William Berry, gate keeper at the crossing, had lowered the gates for the approach of the passenger train. When the engine shrieked, he turned his head just in time to see the girl tossed from the pilot of the engine.

Miss Nessler was 20 years of age

MRS. A. BONAMA HEIR TO FORTUNE

BANKER E. M. WING RECEIVES
INQUIRY FROM HOLLAND

RECALLS OLD LUMBER FIGHT

Family Once Immensely Wealthy
Here; Woman Now New Amsterdam Postmistress

Through letters which have just been received by Cashier E. M. Wing of the Batavian National bank, with regard to the locating of heirs for a large estate left in Amsterdam, Holland, an interesting story has come to light concerning the earliest residents in this section of the state.

Over forty years ago, there came to this country and located near La Crosse two brothers, A. and O. Bonama. They purchased a considerable piece of property along Black river, where now the town of New Amsterdam is located. Here they started a sawmill. They equipped with the best and most costly machinery of that day. Their investment amounted to over $50,000 and they prepared to go into business on an extensive plan.

They brought their wives and families from Holland, and in a short time had founded what is now the worknightstand. They took a h. worked night and day. They took their logs to the mill by way of Black river. Then their trouble started.

Holding up the logs which came down the river, they were in a habit of stopping all of the logs and selecting their own, later letting all others not bearing their mark go by them to sawmills below.

It did not take very long before the smaller sawyers objected. They soon got together and began sending spies into the Bonama territory. These men cut their booms and released their rafts at regular intervals.

Several hundred thousands of dollars were expended by the Bonamas in the fight, but they were finally forced to give in to the organized mill owners from down river, and quit thousands of dollars loser.

Soon after this A. Bonama died. His brother O. Bonama died a few years ago. The only survivor of the Bonamas now in existence is Mrs. O. Bonama, who is at the present time the postmistress of New Amsterdam.

A letter received yesterday by Mr. Wing from a firm of solicitors in Amsterdam, Holland, states that the last Bonama has died in Holland leaving a large estate and inquiring for the heirs here. They will be informed that Mrs. Bonama is entitled to the entire estate of her husband's family, which has been handed down for many generations.

P. T. BARNUM'S LAST JOKE CRACKED

Old Spring Mortar Shoots Boy Into Apple Tree

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., June 15.—The shade of P. T. Barnum, the once great showman, probably sat up and took notice.

Yesterday his famous old mortar went off unexpectedly while some lads were playing with it, and one of the number, Henry Remson, was shot fifty feet into the top of an apple tree. He was not seriously injured.

Barnum made a big hit with the cannon in the day. There was a fake explosion and then a powerful spring would shoot a fair mademoiselle up to the very top of the canvas where she was caught in a net. It was owned here as a relic.

The Picnic Party

The party to Hokah was to have been in honor of James Willoughby of Chicago, who was visiting at the home of Miss Mable Canan, 1602 Lomis street and the guests were Norman De Sautelle, William De Sautelle and wife, Miss Gilky, Miss Besie Wells, Leonard Larson, Miss Pearl Laughlin, Miss Thel Herrington, Miss Mable Canan and Miss Nesler.

IS HE FOR WAR OR IS HE FOR PEACE?

Marquis Kin-Mochi Saionji

The new Japanese premier, Marquis Kin-Mochi Saionji, was the leader of the Selkuk Political association the party founded by Marquis Ito. He was born in 1849. He studied in Paris from 1870 to 1880, and came home with western ideals of politics that startled the older Japanese statesmen. He published a paper called Oriental Liberty. He was made minister to Austria in 1885 and went to Berlin in 1887, but returned home finally to take charge of the National Board of Education. He held this post from 1894 to 1896, and then became minister of foreign affairs. He was afterward created president of the privy council of the Japanese Empire, which he held until called to the premiership.

Moller and leading members of the church and taken to the home of Mrs. G. C. Hixon, in Frank P. Hixon's automobile, and will be entertained at her home during his stay in La Crosse.

After dining at Mrs. Hixon's and a short rest, Bishop Webb started here for the north side, where he opens a busy program at the St. Peter's Episcopal church at the corner of Avon and Logan streets. The service was simply a preaching and the bishop's presence drew a large attendance.

This evening a public reception will be tendered the bishop at Christ church parlors and Sunday morning occurs the consecration of the church with elaborate services followed by confirmation of a large class.

A FROLIC Up River on

THE SUNBEAM

Fifteenth Anniversary of the Athletic Bowling Club at Ferndale, including a Recital of the Various Tragedies
of the Day

Written for The Tribune by Clifton
H. Lane.

It was an auspicious occasion. No less a person than District Attorney Bosshard called it so, and, as he said, he called it so "advisedly." Charlie Miller, former president of the Gateway City Bowling club, characterized it as a tragedy of misfortunes, however, but everybody admitted that Charlie was only jealous. It celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of the founding of the Athletic Bowling club, and took place in one of the charming sylvan retreats of Ferndale, than which, as Mr. Bosshard said, there is no more beautiful spot up and down the state. The river stretches in beautiful, scintillating, silvery sheen, as President Billy Fox said, three miles to the other shore, and is sprinkled with lovely islets, making the spot as poetic, romantic, and seducing, as he said, "as the rose scented gardens where the lovely Yasodhara was wooed and won, and so isolated from the observant, outside world that anything goes except throwing the sofa pillows through the mosquito netting." He was right.

Some Tragic Incidents.

There were many happenings of import, but none so serious as the nasty jar that President Fox got when the insurgents seized an opportune moment at the banquet table to fire the opening gun in their long suspected plot to pry him loose from what he had come to regard as a life job as head of the club. The insurgents went Al. Langenbach. Bill was the first president of the club, and ever since then it has been pay day with any one who has tried to get a look in. Other tragedies included the attempt of Sheriff Burns to make an address, and the effort of Adolph Schroeder, the famous decoy expert, to shoot holes in the Mississippi with the sheriff's revolver, the assemblage (Continued on Page Seven.)

THIRD CASE IS LOST

SALOONKEEPERS AGAIN DISCHARGED

Weigel & Malzarek Sold to Minor "as Agent"

For the third time since the La Crosse purity workers have begun to prosecute violators of the minor saloon laws, a jury in county court has rendered a verdict for the defense.

This time the case is that of Weigel & Malzarek, 1200 La Crosse street who were charged with selling liquor to a minor by the name of Frank Voight on the night of May 20. The case is one of the three which grew out of a crusade in that territory by B. S. Steadwell, George B. Marvin, Rev. Henry Eitzmueller, Rev. Sanders, the boy preacher, and other reformers.

It developed in the evidence that the crusaders secured the services of J. W. Jackson to aid them in securing evidence against the saloon men. Jackson took Voight to the place and gave him money with which to purchase the liquor. The defense was based on the claim that a sale to a minor, under such circumstances, is a sale to an agent, and is no violation of law. E. C. Higbee appeared for the defense.

Hereafter the Rock Island is expected not only to dominate but to operate the road.

Court Shows He Wired Haywood When Arrested

BOISE, Idaho, June 15.—The early session of court today was devoted to the admissibility of the contents of a telegram Adams sent to Haywood, asking for money, when he was arrested at Ogden. The court admitted it. Witness Pender said the telegram read: "Haywood, Denver: Am in trouble, send $75." Cashier Houston of the First National bank, produced the books showing Haywood's financial transactions.

Major Naylor, assistant secretary of the Mine Owners' association of Victor, told of investigating the explosion in the Vindicator mine. He produced part of a broken revolver found near Beck's body.

He said General Bell is a "newspaper soldier." Schullenberg followed Naylor and identified the Peabody bomb found in a river at Wallace.

SCHMITZ IN JAIL FOR ALL HIS LIFE

Frisco Mayor Probably Will Not Be Free Again

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 15.—At a late hour last night Mayor Schmitz was taken from the home of the sheriff and lodged in the county jail. This morning the court finally declined to admit him to bail, ordering him confined until June 27, when sentence will be pronounced. An appeal will probably be taken.

It is expected his sentence will be five years, the maximum penalty, but with charges hanging over him meaning a life time of imprisonment, and with public sentiment bitterly against him, it is doubtful if he will ever again enjoy his liberty.

Under the law, during the mayor's disability and before the final decision of the higher courts to which the case will surely go, the supervisors will select a mayor. After conviction the place will be permanently filled. It has been suggested that Spreckles' friend, three times mayor of San Francisco, James D. Phelan, is the right man. He is now in New York.

Rubber Mills Company Look Up Eastern Scale

No settlement has been reached between the management of the La Crosse Rubber Mills and the strikers.

A letter from an eastern union telling in glowing terms of the high wages paid there on piece work, is said to have been the cause of the strike.

No efforts have been made to fill the places of the strikers.

The company is trying to get correct information on the wages paid in the east, claiming that it is always their prime motive to be fair with their employees.

Government Has No Means of Maintaining Naval Force There Should It Want to

Mr. Welliver's conclusion that the Pacific coast is practically defenseless is supported by the declaration of Secretary of War Taft at Minneapolis Thursday to the effect that it should be strengthened both as to naval equipment and coast defense.

(By J. C. Welliver.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15.—(Special.)—Comparisons of naval strength between the United States and Japan, induced by the squall that threatens to disturb the good relations between the two countries, are serving to bring out clearly the utter failure of this government's policy to make any adequate provision for the protection of the Pacific coast and the nation's possessions in Pacific waters.

It is common to speak of the navy of the United States as the third in the world and that of Japan as the fifth. This, however, conveys no real idea of where the two nations stand with respect to availability of naval force, because of the way the government has long followed of disposing of its warships so as to keep a squadron of great strength in Atlantic waters and fleets of but minor strength on the Pacific. Altogether, this country has twenty-one battleships and eight armored cruisers while Japan has eleven battleships and ten armored cruisers. In protected cruisers, the United States has forty-three to Japan's nineteen but in torpedo boats and destroyers, Japan is far ahead of this country. Japan's fleet is about the equal of (Continued on Page Seven.)

HOME COMING
OF THE CHAMPS

HAWLEY AND HIS ARTISTS PLAY
EAU CLAIRE HERE SUNDAY

ARE FIGHTING FOR THE TOP

La Crosse Making Remarkable Showing in View of the Fact That the Pitching Staff is Limited

Tomorrow, our mutual friends, the La Crosse two times champions of the Wisconsin State league of baseball clubs, will be home once more, back to the sunny field of League park. Returning with Hawley's men come Manager Lynch and his squad of pennant aspirants from Eau Claire, to camp for three days in this beautiful city and learn the inner workings of a great baseball organization.

These games will have an interesting aspect as Eau Claire is making quite a dash for the top of the heap while the champs are eager and anxious to maintain the premier position. They seem to feel that disgrace would stare them in the face, and that humiliation would be theirs, if they should be compelled to reside anywhere else than in first place. This is the incentive for the many wins thus far this season. As one paper said, "those champs have a corner on the winning market. With 'Pink' Hawley sitting on the bench, dressed in a nice light summer suit, and smoking a fragrant Havana, his men go into the game feeling as though they can't lose, and it appears as though they can't very often."

La Crosse could not lose and maintain the lead as Eau Claire is only a few games behind. However, it does not appear at this writing that any club in the league has anything on them, and therefore fans have no need of worrying at the present.

Just Three Pitchers

When everything is considered the champs are doing remarkably well. The pitching staff is composed of just three twirlers, meaning that each man must work at least once every three days. Other teams in the league have four and five pitchers on hand at all times, which condition makes it easy on the men and puts them in good shape for work at any time. The fans were a little dubious of Flynn and Baillies when the club started on the last jaunt, but since they have won their games on the present trip, opinion has reversed. Baillies in particular is showing up well.

Netolicky, the new infield acquisition, will be given a thorough trial by Manager Hawley in the next series. Netolicky is recommended by Joe Killian as a fast man and a good stickler.

A neat and particular housekeeper is not always the great joy to the slothful people who make most of her work that she imagines she is.

A remembered kiss is like an exclamation point in the mental landscape.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., June 15.—Eau Claire won the second game of the series here yesterday from La Crosse by getting hits at opportune times, the final score being 4 to 2.

Flynn did the twirling for the visitors and was touched up for nine safeties, one of which was a three bagger. Eberly, who performed the slab work for Eau Claire, pitched a splendid game up to the seventh inning when he weakened and during the last three innings of play was swatted for eight hits netting two runs and it looked for a time as if Eau Claire's score would be tied or beaten.

In the seventh Eberly allowed three hits and when two men had been retired, leaving three men on bases he forced in a run by walking Hazel, the only walk of the game. In the eighth Vogt opened up, the proceedings with a clean single and went to second on Bonds infield out. Then Konetchy singled. Cahill rolled a grounder to Hotten and went out. Hotten to Burke, but Vogt scored on the play. Medwtzky retired the side by flying out to Graves.

In the last inning Eau Claire was treated to a genuine scare. With Moore down and out Killian singled, then Hazel dithered, and Flynn followed suit and all the bases filled with only one out. And to make matters look real dark and gloomy heavy hitting Vogt was up to bat. And Vogt was in real earnest for he caught one on the nose and it went at a terrific clip. Graves' way and the fans held their breath. Graves was equal to the emergency, however, and caught the ball and then doubled Hazel off second, thereby completing a double play which retired the side and the game was won.

Eau Claire runs came in the following manner: In the first O'Leary started out with a single over third. Graves sacrificed him to second, whence he scored on Watson's clean single to right. Watty going to second on the throw to the plate. Then came a most sensational play. Stang met one square on the nose and it went on a line along the left field foul line and there was no question in the minds of anyone but that it would land safe. Medwtzky thought different, however, for he started after the ball and stuck out his bare hand just in time to pull it down and then double Speiser off second. (Speiser was running for Watson, who had been hurt while sliding to second.)

In the third Graves received a life on Bonds' error and arrived at third on two infield outs and scored on Hotten single.

In the fourth Burke reached first on Vogt's error after Velnor had struck out. Eberly went out via Flynn and Konetchy. O'Leary came forward with his second hit and Burke scored while the former was thrown out trying to steal second.

The final run came in the sixth. Bailey singled, was sacrificed to second and scored on Eberly's three bagger between left and center.

BADGER CREW
NOW IN EAST

WISCONSIN EIGHT SURVIVE RIDE
IN GOOD SHAPE

WITTE'S HAND IS BETTER

The Rowing Colony is Now Complete, All of the Crews Being on Hand for the Big Regatta

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 15.—Rough water on the Hudson set all the college oarsmen to rigging washboards on their shells yesterday afternoon. The Columbia varsity was swamped a few days ago trying to row in rough water and since then all the crews have been exceedingly cautious.

Before 7 o'clock last evening the waves subsided and all the crews appeared on the river, although the late hour caused shorter practice than usual. Five colleges were represented by eights and there were exchanges of salutes as the various coaching launches passed each other, the scene being a lively one.

Syracuse and Wisconsin arrived yesterday. The former brought varsity and freshmen eights and varsity four. Wisconsin brought two eights, varsity and freshmen. Georgetown and Annapolis arrive today, completing the rowing colony and from now on the practice of so many crews in the same water will make an interesting spectacle twice daily in front of this city.

The Wisconsin oarsmen survived the long ride half way across the continent in good shape and Coach Ten Eyck said that he did not look for any bad results from the 1,000 mile ride. The crew will be housed at the home of Dr. C. P. Hutchins, physical director at the University of Wisconsin. The Badgers took their first splash in the waters of the Hudson yesterday afternoon. Although the row was a light one the men got along in good style, the rough water just being to their liking. The injury to Witte's hand is getting along nicely and there is still a possibility of his getting in the big race.

THE DOPE BOX

Konetchy, Medwtzky, Netolicky. Can you beat those for pye lines?

Three cheers and a tiger, the weather man failed to deliver the goods yesterday. He forecasted rain, but when he pulled the plug he found the tank drained.

Several towns in the Three-I league have asked the local association to quote figures on Konetchy. The big fellow is much too good for that class, however.

Eau Claire slapped one across yesterday when no one was looking. This necessitates the playing of the rubber this afternoon.

Caspar, released by Freeport to Waterloo in the Iowa league, pitched Thursday for that team and defeated Burlington, 15 to 2. He immediately won a home with the fans there.

It is said that Manager Lynch of Eau Claire does more to irritate his pitchers than an opposing bunch of rooters. He is so anxious to win he continually talks to his men.

Freeport's suggestion of lengthening the season this year may be seriously considered. Other clubs in the league are in favor of a longer season, owing to the conditions.

Medwtzky's one handed catch in yesterday's game was a great piece of work, it is said. Med is there with the big mit.

Konetchy got his eye back yesterday, after having lost it for two days, and picked out a couple of nice ones.

Rock Island and Springfield of the Three-I league got in a long mix-up yesterday of 19 innings. The former team won, 6 to 5.

It appears that the only time Freeport is able to clean up a game is when Warhop is in the box. The little fellow is being worked overtime at that.

HASTINGS RETURNED

Twirler Will Probably Be in Game Tomorrow

Pitcher D. L. Hastings of the Champions, who has been laid up at his home in De Sota, Wis., will return to La Crosse this evening and is expected to work out in the game with Eau Claire tomorrow. Hastings has been out of the game with a lame shoulder.

MAY NOT GET C. A. A. U. MEET

Milwaukee After the Event in Connection With the State Fair
MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 15.—It is doubtful whether the Central A. A. U. track and field championships will be held in Milwaukee this year. It was intended to run the meet in connection with the State fair in September, and Walter H. Liginger, president of the Central association, made a proposition to that effect to the State fair authorities. So far they have not seen fit to reply. The national championships were held in connection with the fair in 1902, and proved to be one of its best features. Liginger is now working on the charges made against the Milwaukee Athletic club recently by the Chicago faction of the Central association. He says there will be a complete vindication when the matter is brought before the directors' meeting in Chicago on June 22.

FOR A LA CROSSE HOME-COMING

"Say good-bye er how d' do,
All th' same to me an' you.
Comin', goin' every day,
Bes' friends first to go away,
All th' same to me an' you.
Say good-bye er how d' do."

These lines by J. Whitcomb Riley
are recalled as an appropriate text
for a discussion of the municipal
"home-coming."

It is coming to be a pretty custom
of cities to fix some year for a homecoming. That is, a year during which, on fixed dates, the citizens
shall devote themselves to the entertainment of all those who have been residents, and have gone away
to other fields.

Spring Grove, Minnesota, a prosperous and enterprising little neighbor of La Crosse, is having a homecoming this year. So is Bloomington, Ill. So is Viroqua. So is Berlin,
Wis.

La Crosse has never had a homecoming. During the sixty odd years of its existence thousands of its people have left it and gone to other spheres of activity. Especially from its young of each succeeding generation have there been scores annually
to respond to life's call to action elsewhere. Some of them, occasionally, drift back, but in the absence of some great call, some event of universal interest to our one-time citizens and neighbors, there will never come a day when any appreciable number of them congregate here, and most of them will not come at all. Yet they want to come. They want to see the old town; they want to brush elbows
with their old neighbors. A homecoming would bring thousands of them.

It is worth while. After all, life
is but a succession of introductions and au revoirs. The pleasure of knowing people and the satisfaction
of doing good to people, is life's best reward. The human relation in life is aptly characterized by Longfellow
as the nightly meeting of vessels.

"Ships that pass in the night,
And speak each other in passing—
Only a signal shown,
And a distant voice in the darkness."

"So, on the ocean of life,
We pass and speak one another,
Only a look and a voice,
Then darkness again, and a silence."

That is all there would be to a home-coming. Those whom we knew,
and who have gone, we "spoke in passing." Isn't it worth while for those who have gone and those who have remained to again "pass in the night, and speak each other in passing?"

Why cannot La Crosse have a home-coming in 1908? It should be advertised for a year in advance. If it is to be a "go," it is time now to begin. We are a common sense people, but it is possible to be too impervious to sentiment. "All work
and no play makes Jack a dull boy."
Let us have a season of play. Let us have a home-coming year!

AN ENTERTAINING "JOLLY"

The article in today's issue entitled, "A Frolic Up River on the Sunbeam," was written expressly for
THE TRIBUNE by Mr. Clifton H.
Lane, who is private secretary to Congressman W. J. Cary of Milwaukee, and also a staff correspondent of the Milwaukee Sentinel. Mr.
Lane has described with rich humor
the experiences of the Athletic Bowling club, an organization of gentlemen to whom bowling and other active sports furnishes recreation and amusement, in a trip to Ferndale, the delightful Salzer cottage on the Mississippi. To everybody the tale is an interesting one,
and to the initiated it is what in the exuberance of youth our young women call, "a regular scream."

LET JUSTICE BE SWIFT

The conviction of Mayor Schmitz
was a foregone conclusion. The unianimity of the jury was such as to denote a substantial public sentiment against Schmitz impossible of creation except through the existence and publication of facts which,
unhampered by the rules of arbitrary evidence, were sufficient to convict in the minds of the average fair-minded man. Conviction came swiftly. Punishment should be dealt out with equal promptness. That Schmitz's cunning counsel will employ every legal subterfuge, appeal

to every legal technicality, to secure delay and attempt to defraud justice
of satisfaction is certain. The courts of California, however, are not in a mood to be trifled with, and it may fairly be expected that the fair name
of the state will be redeemed by the swift and adequate penalization of one of the worst offenders against public morals that the century has produced.

THE COMING HORSE

The automobile, with its smell of gasoline and its breakneck speed, is a great institution. But the horse never stops because of a faulty carburetor. The auto has come to stay,
but the horse will never go, for the horse is man's best friend.

The race horse is bred to speed.
But racing is a brainy game, and the intelligence of the horse contributes to the success of the race as much as does that of the driver. It follows that in breeding thoroughbred racers, men breed intelligence as well as speed. So well known is the brain capacity of the well produced horse that the quality of level-headedness is aptly characterized as
"horse sense."

R. T. Wilson has bred swift and intelligent horses. He has not been a horse task-master. He is a horse lover, and his intuitive understanding has placed him on such relations with the horse that a mutual comprehension seems to exist between them.

It is a worthy step on the part of La Crosse men who appreciate the beauty and strength and the near humanity of the horse, to encourage Mr. Wilson to bring to La Crosse another horse that shall become a candidate for distinguished honors. He has "picked" two world famed racers.
He has developed them as few turf-
men could. He has thereby contributed to the renown of La Crosse,
and has created for himself the reputation of being among that minority of race horse men known for their integrity.

It is fitting that, in the face of his second adversity by which a great
racer was lost on the eve of a record-
making season, the people of La Crosse
should participate in an enterprise to renew the possibility of this city becoming the home of the world's greatest harness horse. We believe the confidence that has been shown in R. T. Wilson is absolutely justified. We believe the horse he brings back with him will acquire world-wide renown. We believe, as Mr. Wilson himself puts it, that he will "make it three straight."

A SPLENDID BAND

One of the best bases for judging
the character of the country cities
is the merit shown in their musical organizations.

In most cases, it is the band. Interest in the band is intensified by the fact that it is made up of the young men of the city. It is usually semi-amateurish in its character,
and pride of home combines with love of music to impel painstaking devotion to the acquirement of a high degree of proficiency. There is in it the skill of the professional coupled with the enthusiasm of the amateur, a splendid combination.

Nowhere in this section of the country, according to La Crosse men,
excellent judges of music, who visited Rushford upon the occasion of the recent excursion, is there a band
of this kind that is so proficient as the organization in that city. Although less than two years old it
has acquired a mastery of technique,
a richness of expression, a power
and a perfection of rendition that qualifies it to compete with the excellent organizations in the larger cities.

It is suggested that the Rushford
band should be invited to appear at the La Crosse interstate fair next fall. That is a courtesy request for which the fair directors would find
in the production of most excellent music that could not fail to contribute to the success and the entertainment of the fair.

port a murderer who has lived in

der-hearted, dear, you must just yearn

Mr. Goodart—Well, my dear, the

JUST LIFE

Farm Note

That turkey is still holding down
part of our neighbor's chicken yard
and eating its head off. I guess Les will have quite a bill for feed against the owner if he should happen to call around for it. By the way, it turned out to be a hen turkey. What's that?
Well anyway Les says that it laid an egg and I never heard of a gobbler doing anything like that. Of course
I'm not a farmer but that isn't necessary is it to know that gobblers don't lay eggs?—Spring Valley Sun.

The Country Editor

It amuses us to see some of our exchanges squirm in an effort to offend no one. The newspaper that can be published so as not to offend anyone is a jewel, and the editor is entitled to a pair of golden wings. Human nature is so constituted that some like scandal while others don't.
Some like to see others "rip ped up the back," others don't; some like to have the truth told about them, others don't; some like to take a paper six or eight years and never pay a cent and get mad and stop
their paper when they get a statement account, others don't. It is not in the province of a paper to please everybody, and the editor can extract consolation from the fact that the Lord himself failed to please everybody when on earth.—Rural exchange.

FASHION HINTS

(By May Manton.)

5656 Girl's Dress, 6 to 12 years.

5656 Girl's Dress, 6 to 12 years.

The dress that is made with a slight open neck and short sleeves
is both an eminently satisfactory one
for warm weather wear and one that is charmingly attractive and picturesque in effect. Here is one that is made of ring dotted batiste with trimming of embroidery and that is daintiness itself yet absolutely
simple as all girls' dresses should be. The full frills over the shoulders form epaulettes and give the broad effect that is so becoming to unfilled figures and the lines of the entire dress are of the best possible sort. All the pretty seasonable materials are appropriate, colored
and figured, the frock becoming more or less dressy as one or the other is chosen. In this instance the epiaulettes are of embroidery but these could be made of the material, so producing a plainer result, and stitched bands can be substituted for the ornamental ones if chambray,
percale or other sturdy material is chosen.

The frock is made with waist and skirt, the waist being tucked at its upper edge. The sleeves are of moderate fullness and are tucked at their lower edges where they are finished with straight bands. The skirt is straight and also is tucked flat over the hips.

The quantity of material required
for the medium size (10 years) is 4 1/2 yards 27, 3 1/2 yards 32 or 3
yards 44 inches wide with 1 1/4 yards of embroidery 7 inches wide for the epaulettes, 2 1/2 yards of banding
and 1 yard of narrow embroidery
for sleeve frills to make as illustrated.

The pattern 5656 is cut in sizes
for girls of 6, 8, 10 and 12 years
of age and will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents.
(If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage which insures more prompt delivery.)

The "Small Cow."

A Washington man, wishing to take his family into the country for the summer, crossed over to the Virginia side of the Potomac to look at a small farm with a view to renting
it. Everything was to his liking, and negotiations were about to be completed when the question of hiring also the farmer's cow came up. It was an excellent cow, the farmer declared, and even after feeding her calf she would give six quarts of milk a day.

"Six quarts a day!" exclaimed
the Washington man. "That is more than my whole family could use."

Then, suddenly observing the calf
following its mother about the pasture, he added:

"I'll tell you what I'll do! I'll hire the small cow. She's just about

"SHOESTRING TO A TANNERY."

(White Pine News.)

Jack Connor, a soldier of fortune
from Seattle, walked into the Monte Carlo gambling-house yesterday
with his pockets empty. This morning he arose from a faro table and edged through the dense crowd
which for several hours had watched his daring play, with $6,500 of the house's money in his pocket.

Connor had a streak of luck that would have made a yellow dog sick.
He had been in Goldfield but a few short hours when he blew into the Monte Carlo. On the floor his eye connected with a 10-cent piece. He picked up the coin from the floor,
and walking over to a near-by roulette wheel placed it in 17, the gamblers' number. There was a heavy play at the time, but little attention was paid to Connor's bet.
"Seventeen in the black," drawled
the dealer, and calmly proceeded to take and pay the numerous bets strung out on the layout.

"Thirty-five for one and your money back," drawled the dealer as he laid 3 and a 4-bit piece beside the dime. Connor picked up his money and elbowed his way to a faro game. Luck was still with him,
and as he won he increased the size of his bets. The Monte Carlo has the highest limit of any house in town—$100 to cases—and Connor was not long in reaching it. The pickers soon quit, and he had the layout to himself for the greater part of the time, with a dense crowd gathered around the table watching the play. Time after time did he call the turn, until, at last, weary of the game, he cashed in, $6,500
winner of a dime which he found on the floor.

"From a shoestring to a tannery," remarked a habitue of the house as the lucky man made his way to the door.

The Great Alaskan Story

When he had surrendered her, at the beginning of the next dance,
McNamara sought for some acquaintance whom he might question. Most of the men in Nome either hated or feared him, but he espied one that he thought suited
his purpose, and led him into a corner.

"I want you to answer a question.
No beating about the bush. Understand? I'm blunt, and I want you to be."

"All right."
"Your wife has been entertained at Miss Chester's house. I've seen her there. Tonight she refuses to speak to the girl. She cut her head,
and I want to know what it's about."

"How should I know?"
"If you don't know, I'll ask you
to find out."

The other shook his head amused-
ly, at which McNamara flared up.
"I say you will, and you'll make your wife apologize before she leaves this hall, too, or you'll answer to me, man to man. I won't stand to have a girl like Miss Chester cold-decked by a bunch of mining-camp swells, and that goes as it lies." In his excitement, McNamara reverted to his Western idiom.

The other did not reply at once,
for it is embarrassing to deal with a person who disregards the conventions utterly, and at the same time
has the inclination and force to compel obedience. The boss's reputation had gone abroad.

"Well—er—I know about it in a general way, but of course I don't go much on such things. You'd better let it drop."

"Go on."
"There has been a lot of talk
among the ladies about—well, or
the fact is, that young Glenister,
Mrs. Champain had the next stateroom to them—er—him—I should say—on the way up from the States,
and she saw things. Now, as far as I am concerned, a girl can do as she please, but Mrs. Champain has her own ideas of propriety. From what my wife could learn, there's some truth in the story, too, so you can't blame her."

With a word McNamara could have explained the gossip and made
this man put his wife right, forcing through her an elucidation of the silly affair in such a way as to spare Helen's feelings and cover the busy tongued magpies with confusion. Yet he hesitated. It is a wise skipper who trims his sails to every breeze. He thanked his informant and left him. Entering the lobby,
he saw the girl hurrying towards
him.

"Take me away, quick! I want to go home."

"Yes, let us go," she panted, and when they were outside she walked so rapidly that he had difficulty in keeping pace with her. She was silent, and he knew better than to question, but when they arrived at her house he entered, took off his overcoat, and turned up the light in the tiny parlor. She flung her wraps over a chair, storming back and forth like a little fury. Her eyes were starry with tears of anger, her face was flushed, her hands worked nervously. He leaned against the mantel, watching her
through his cigar smoke.

"You needn't tell me," he said at length.

"I am glad you do. I never could repeat what they said. Oh, it was brutal!" Her voice caught and she bit her lip. "What made me ask them? Why didn't I keep still?
After you left, I went to those women and faced them. Oh, but they were brutal! Yet, why should I care?" She stamped her slipped foot.

"I shall have to kill that man
some day," he said flicking his cigar ashes into the grate.

"What man?" She stood still and looked at him.

"Glenister, of course. If I had thought the story would ever reach
you, I'd have shut him up long ago."

"It didn't come from him," she cried, hot with indignation. "He's a gentleman. It's that cat, Mrs.
Champain."

He shrugged his shoulders the slightest bit, but it was eloquent,
and she noted it. "Oh, I don't mean that he did it intentionally—
he's too decent a chap for that—but anybody's tongue will wag to a jealous girl! My lady Malotte is a jealous trick."

"Malotte! Who is she?" Helen questioned, curiously.

He seemed surprised. "I thought every one knew who she is. It's just as well that you don't."

"I am sure Mr. Glenister would not talk of me." There was a pause. "Who is Miss Malotte?"

He studied for a moment, while she watched him. What a splendid figure he made in his evening clothes! The cosy room with its shaded lights enhanced his size and strength and rugged outlines. In his eyes was that admiration which women live for. He lifted his bold, handsome face and met her gaze.

"I had rather leave that for you to find out, for I'm not much at scandal. I have something more important to tell you. It's the most important thing I have ever said to you, Helen." It was the first time he had used that name, and she began to tremble, while her eyes sought the door in a panic. She had expected this moment, and yet was not ready.

"Not tonight—don't say it now,"
she managed to articulate.

"Yes, this is a good time. If you

We Know

What Flour Is

Marvel Flour is the best flour we know of,
and we say it in all honesty and sincerity.
We are in a position to know, too, for we know what Marvel Flour is, and we also know pretty well what other brands are.

Marvel Flour is made of selected hard spring wheat—the best grown in Minnesota and the Dakotas. We will accept no other kind. That's one reason why Marvel is the best, for some other millers aren't so particular; and then our mill is the cleanest establishment you ever saw. It is kept that way by rigid discipline. Even the air of the Marvel mill is pure and entirely free from dust so that Marvel Flour, made of the finest wheat in the cleanest way, is a delight to the housewife and a joy to the seller.

ALL GROCERS

can't answer, I'll come back tomorrow. I want you to be my wife. I want to make you happy, girl.
There'll be no gossip hereafter—
I'll shield you from everything unpleasant, and if there is anything
you want in life, I'll lay it at your feet. I can do it." He lifted his massive arms, and in the set of his strong, square face was the promise that she should have whatever she craved if mortal man could give
it to her—love, protection, position,
adoration.

She stammered uncertainly till
the humiliation and chagrin she had suffered this night swept over her again. This town—this crude, half-born mining-camp—had turned against her, misjudged her cruelly.
The women were envious, clacking scandal-mongers, all of them, who would ostracize her and make her life in the Northland a misery, make her an outcast with nothing to sus-tain her but her own solitary pride.

She could picture her future clearly,
pitilessly, and see herself standing alone, vilified, harassed in a thousand cutting ways, yet unable to run away, or to explain. She would have to stay and face it, for her life was bound up here during the next few years or so, or as long as her uncle remained a judge. This man would free her. He loved her;
he offered her everything. He was bigger than all the rest combined.
They were his playthings, and they knew it. She was not sure that she loved him, but his magnetism was overpowering, and her admiration intense. No other man she had ever known compared with him, except Glenister—Bah! The beast! He had insulted her at first; he wronged
her now.

"Will you be my wife, Helen?"
the man repeated, softly.

She dropped her head, and he strode forward to take her in his arms, then stopped, listening. Someone ran on the porch and hammered
loudly at the door. McNamara scowled, walked into the hall, and flung the portal open, disclosing Struve.

"Hello, McNamara! Been looking
all over for you. There's the deuce to you!" Helen sighed with relief and gathered up her cloak, while the hum of their voices reached her indistinctly. She was given plenty of time to regain her composure before they appeared. When they did the politician spoke sourly:

ITCHING RASH LASTED 18 YEARS

Baby Girl Had Rash Behind Ears—
Nothing Would Drive It Away—
It Spread and Grew Worse Under Specialist's Care—Tried Everything Without Avail.

CUTICURA REMEDIES EFFECTED PERFECT CURE

"When my daughter was a baby she had a breaking out behind the ears. The doctor said that she would out-grow it, and it did get somewhat better until she was about fifteen years old, and after that we could get nothing that would drive it away. She was always applying something in the way of salves. It troubled her behind the knees, opposite the elbows, back of the neck and ears, under the chin, and then it got on the face. That was about three years ago. As we had tried everything that we could hear of without help she took treatment with a specialist and seemed to get worse all the time. We were then advised to try the Cuticura Remedies, and now I don't see any breaking out, and we are well pleased with the results, and I will cheerfully recommend the Cuticura Remedies to all that may need them. M. Curley, 11-19 Sixteenth St., Bay City, Mich., May 20, 1906."

Started treating her with Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent. She is now nearly six years old, and no sores have as yet appeared on her face. From the day of her cure we have always praised the Cuticura Remedies in the highest. Mrs. W. H. Kimball, Canton, Minn., Nov. 9, 1905."

MINNESOTA AND THE NORTHWEST DR. GERMAIN IS PLACED ON STAND

KAUFFMANN FAMILY PHYSICIAN
IS CROSS-EXAMINED

MRS. KAUFFMANN ATTENTIVE

Defense Believes it Has Made Material Headway, But State Is Equally Confident.

FLANDREAU, S. D., June 15.—The close of the first day's offering of testimony in behalf of the defendant in the Kauffmann murder case finds the defense confident it has made material headway, while the state, equally as confident, is disputing the claims of the defense and contending that there has been no impairment of the case of the state, and that, in fact, the state made distinct gain in the cross examination of witnesses for the defense who were on the stand yesterday.

Upon whether or not the prosecution is able to minimize the effect of the testimony of Drs. Germain and Olney, and other physicians for the defense who will to a certain extent corroborate them, depends the case of the state, and whether or not the conviction of the defendant can be secured.

Last night the state declared it had torn the testimony of both the physicians to pieces and that the defense had absolutely made no headway but that on the other hand, it has lost ground.

A demonstration was made yesterday by the spectators against the defense. While it was not so prolonged as any of the demonstrations on Tuesday, Judge Smith again emphatically stated that further demonstrations would not be permitted in the court room.

Throughout yesterday proceedings Mrs. Kauffmann was an attentive listener, eagerly drinking in every word of direct and cross-examination.

CALEDONIA FESTIVAL CELEBRATE FOURTH IN FINE OLD STYLE

Able Committee Appointed to Arrange Details

CALEDONIA, Minn., June 15.—(Special).—Caledonia is planning for an immense celebration upon the Fourth of July. A large amount of money has been raised to provide attractions and the Caledonia Baseball association has secured the famous Colored Gophers of St. Paul for a game of ball on that day with the local team. A committee of enterprising business men, composed of David Schleich, F. A. Duxbury, R. D. Skar, O. W. Nelson, N. Koel and John W. Potter have been appointed to take hold of the celebration and push it through. They are active and energetic and will make things go. The Caledonia Commercial went to Rushford Wednesday to play two games of ball at the Woodmen picnic. They defeated Harmony 7 to 1. Lisle Beddow was in the box for the locals. He is a high school boy and only 17 years old, but he has speed and curves to burn and certainly is a coming pitcher. Thursday the Commercial played Houston and were defeated by a score of 5 to 2. Houston was re-inforced by the Blair, Wis., battery, Olson and Smith, who were not only great in their positions but by their work with the stick brought in all the scores Houston obtained.

The alumni of the Caledonia high school gave their annual ball Friday at the Union hall and an enjoyable time was had by all.

MAYOR JOHNSON DEAD

Fargo's Chief Executive Expires After Brief Illness
FARGO, N. D., June 15.—Hon. J. A. Johnson, mayor of Fargo, died yesterday after a brief illness. He was several times elected chief executive of the city, and was ex-president of the American League of Municipalities, and a Mason of high degree.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs.
"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a bell. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes. O. T. Erhart.

SPRING GROVE IS DELIGHTED

VILLAGE PLEASED OVER BIG LA CROSSE DELEGATION

EXTENDS A HEARTY WELCOME

Leading La Crosse Wholesaler Sold His First Bill There—Strong Bond of Friendship Exists

SPRING GROVE, Minn., June 15.—(Special).—If anything could have caused the home-coming committee, the business men and citizens of Spring Grove especial and additional pleasure it was the good news that the board of trade and other citizens of La Crosse would be here in a body on Thursday next to attend the 55th anniversary of the home-coming celebration.

Spring Grove as always felt kindly to her large sister, who is, so to speak, at her very door, and she is thankful for this occasion "to let her in," and show her the respect due her. This proposed visit to our little village by the business interests of La Crosse is a testimony of their good will towards us and we welcome this evidence of an expression of mutual feelings.

La Crosse and Spring Grove have had business relations since the very dawn of their existence and there is no reason why the same relations so mutually beneficial should not continue.

It is a fact worthy of notice that J. J. Hogan, the respected veteran merchant of La Crosse, sold his first bill of goods to Mons Fladager, the pioneer merchant of Spring Grove.

This same sale was Mr. Fladager's first purchase, the very beginning of a successful business career of half a century. The two gentlemen became life long friends, and so should La Crosse and Spring Grove.

The citizens of Spring Grove extend to La Crosse the hand of welcome, with the hope that her visit to our little village may be pleasant and profitable, both in a social and a business way.

AUTHORIZED TO HAVE PLANS DRAWN

AUDITORIUM COMMITTEE SO EMPOWERED BY COUNCIL

OFFICIALS WANT NEW HOURS

Officials Would Have Saturday Afternoons to Themselves; Minor Doings of Council.

Five architects will be chosen by the auditorium committee to draw sketches for the proposed municipal auditorium and armory so that the matter can be pushed without delay. The auditorium committee, on recommendation of Chairman Gus Keller, was empowered by the common council last evening to take this action. The cost of the work is not to exceed $500. The committee will at once select the architects to do the work and expects to have before long some definite plans and estimates of cost to work upon.

Want Office Hours.

EAGLES ROASTED BY OSHKOSH PASTORS Mayor Censured for Taking "Lid" Off

OSHKOSH, Wis., June 8.—(Special).—Ministers of Oshkosh are resentful of the freedom given the Eagles at their recent convention, the contention being that Oshkosh is disgraced by the licentiousness that is said to have prevailed. The mayor is censured because he said to the visitors that "The lid is off; the key is gone. Take what you want." It is asserted that the streets and saloons were filled with intoxicated women, and that the "orgie" lasted into the morning despite the 12-o'clock closing ordinance. It is also charged that good women were subjected to insult in the street. Rev. Augustus Marshall Ayers, a leading pastor, said: "Oshkosh has been disgraced, humiliated, dragged in the mire, every sense of decency outraged."

When a man is willing to go to church with a girl he is terribly fond of her, for the time being.

TRANS-CONTINENTAL RIDERS

On Sunday morning last the trans-continental riders, Joseph P. Collins, and Otto Kirk, both of Brooklyn, Mass.; Morgan & Wright, of Detroit, Mich.; Persons Mfg. Co., Worcester, Mass., and the Veeder Mfg. Co., of Hartford, Conn.

While it has been announced that the trip is being made to lower the existing record of 38 days and 8 hours, which was made in 1896, it is nearer the truth to say that this is an attempt to establish a record upon which no doubt can be cast. While the record named was accepted by the sporting world, there was considerable doubt as to its correctness, for the very good reason that no checking system was used. During the present tour checking will take place every 20 miles, or as near that distance as possible, in accordance with the rules of the Century Road club of America. That the run has been made possible is largely due to the following firms: Iver Johnson Arms & Cycle works, of Fitchburg, Mass.; Morgan & Wright, of Detroit, Mich.; Persons Mfg. Co., Worcester, Mass., and the Veeder Mfg. Co., of Hartford, Conn.

One of the queerest things about a man is the way he thinks that the woman who loves him should adore his faults.

MACCABEES KICK ON BAD TREATMENT

HAD NO SHOW TO WIN DRILL

Because, They Say, in Interview, Local Team Had Military Captain and Several Outside Members

The Lady Maccabees of Eau Claire, particularly the members of the drill team of Hive No. 31, are deeply aggrieved over what they call the unfair and discourteous treatment they received at the state convention held this week in this city. In an interview at Eau Claire, they gave out the following:

"We left Eau Claire on Monday morning with a drill team, sixteen strong, also the captain and musician, eighteen in all. A committee or a member of a committee was supposed to be at the depot at La Crosse to meet us and give instructions and advice as to our lodging, and so forth. There was no one there when the train got in, and we had to hunt up quarters as best we could. In that respect we were fortunate indeed. We found shelter at the 'Palace,' where we experienced splendid treatment all the time we were there and we might say that it was about all the courteous treatment we received during our visit.

"In the evening we went to the Hotel Stoddard to the reception. That part of the program was all right.

"On Tuesday the session opened at Convention hall, a fine building, in a room larger than Putnam's. It belongs, we think, to the Modern Woodmen. It was beautifully decorated perfectly lovely. There was routine business done all day, reports, accounts, etc. In the evening there was a welcome by the mayor all very nice, and then came the drill. There were only two teams entered, La Crosse and Eau Claire. La Crosse drilled first under the captain of the military company of Wisconsin National Guards, which was entirely wrong. The regulations specify that the drill master must be a Lady Maccabee. The judges were selected, all three, from the captain's own company, which was altogether wrong. How could an impartial award be looked for under such circumstances?

"Then the La Crosse team had seven young ladies who were not Maccabees at all, which is expressly contrary to the rules and regulations, which specify that none but members of the order shall compete. Then again the La Crosse team did not use the figures prescribed by the rules and regulations of the Ladies of the Maccabees concerning drill teams. Seeing this gross violation of all rules and orders, the Eau Claire team had no alternative left but to withdraw from the contest, which it promptly did, under protest.

An appeal was made to the Supreme Commander Lady Lillian Holister, but no satisfaction was given. She said the Eau Claire drill team could have a military man to drill them if they wanted to.

"The La Crosse papers said that the home team won. It couldn't help winning, as it had no opposition. We came away disgusted and left for home on Wednesday at 10:55 a. m. There was not a courtesy shown us during our visit except by the manager of the Palace and he is not a brother."

America's submarines and coast defense vessels.

Battleships Not in Pacific
None of the battleships of this country is in the Pacific. The heaviest warship in that region under the stars and stripes is of the armored cruiser type. If the present fleet in the Pacific were all concentrated there is no reason to suppose that in case of conflict with Japan it could possibly escape being sent to the bottom. Naval officers admit, of course, that it is entirely inadequate for the protection of the Pacific coast, Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippines.

No Adequate Pacific Station
Should the time come in the near future when it is necessary to use the American fleet against an enemy in the Pacific it is inevitable there would be a storm of public criticism at the defenseless condition of the country from the Pacific side. Not alone would it be seen that the fleet there is utterly inadequate but that there are no proper facilities on the Pacific for taking care of a fleet. The only dry dock where the big warships could be sent to repair is at Bremerton. At Mare Island, dock facilities are inadequate. In the Philippines, the floating dry dock, which was towed over there at heavy expense, and which is at Clongapo, could be utilized except for the fact that in case of trouble with Japan it would undoubtedly be at once seized. More than this, the Pacific region is lacking in a proper coal supply. The amount of fuel there has been allowed to run low while the government is shipping a quantity of it there in sailing vessels it will be long before enough is sent to keep in supply a big fleet under campaign conditions.

West Coast Neglected
Various reasons have prevented the formation of a strong fleet in the Pacific. The general disposition of the government to take the view that necessity for one might arise is probably at the bottom of it. There is no question that the appropriations by congress in the past would have permitted the upbuilding of better navy yards and dockage facilities in the Pacific region than now exist. Had the navy department given this subject the attention it is now becoming clear it deserved to have given it. So much stress has been laid by this government on the necessity of looking out for the Monroe doctrine, which the disposition has been to regard as jeopardized by German activity in South America that it has been deemed needful to keep a gigantic battleship fleet in Atlantic waters. The difficulty of coaling a big fleet in the Pacific region, and the additional expense thereof have militated against building up a large Pacific coast squadron. Another factor has been the social one. Officers of the navy enjoy the comparatively easy service in the Atlantic with the vessels putting frequently into New York or some of the other great cities and taking part in great naval displays here and in Europe much better than the comparatively lonesome and arduous service on the Pacific coast, or in the Philippines, in Hawaii, or even about San Francisco and Seattle. The state department has looked to Europe as the inevitable source of any trouble this country might have. Until recent months, it has never apparently given serious thought to the idea that Japan might under certain circumstances become a country worth watching.

Japan Would Resent Move
There is no doubt the navy department has given consideration to the plan of sending a part of the big battleships from the Atlantic to the Pacific since things began to look cloudy in the Japanese direction. The general board of the navy has taken the matter up within the last few months. It was determined that it would be unwise to make such a move, for the reason that it might be regarded by Japan as an affront. Nevertheless, there is a strong feeling among naval officers that this is what will have to be done ultimately, not to foment trouble but to assist in preserving the peace. A good many officials take the view that if the American fleet were so disposed as to have a dozen of its largest vessels in the Pacific there would be less disposition in Japan to make relations with America the football of politics. Naval officers in this country have been giving the most careful study to Japanese naval strategy since the battle of Tsushima straits. They are well aware that it would be a difficult thing to send a fleet from the Atlantic to the Pacific side after a war broke out and to have it meet a Japanese fleet of equal or superior strength with much chance of success. It was demonstrated that one of the great reasons for Togo's victory was the superior speed of his fleet, which enabled him to choose the range at which he would fight his enemy and conduct the battle at a distance much too great for the gunnery of the Russians to be effective. An American fleet sent into the Pacific and arriving there with foul bottoms, in no condition to accomplish speed, would be under some of the disadvantages under which Rojstevsky struggled. The clearest naval strategy nowadays points to the need of equality in gunnery and in speed in order to meet an enemy under even conditions. In order to keep their speed where it should be, most naval officers perceive it is necessary to have fleets near to a base where they have proper opportunities for cleaning and repairing.

It is likely the defenseless condition of the Pacific will receive a good deal of quiet attention at the hands of congress next session. Indications now are that there will be liberal battleship appropriations. President Roosevelt is expected to urge this. Probably at least two more dreadnaughts will be authorized, and it will not be surprising if steps are taken to improve dock facilities on the Pacific. The movement for converting Pearl Harbor into a strong naval base is likely to receive more than usual attention.

being much interested in watching the bullets make the water splash. Minor incidents included a pot pourri of agitated language from Fred Ruplin, who has been afraid of the water ever since childhood, and who suffered a three cornered shock when "Duffield" Williams steered the boat into the turbulent waves left by the stern wheeler "W. W." Another incident of note during the day was the extremely horrible encounter between the White Sox team and Umpire Langenbach when he called Percy Wiggernhorn out at first on a hit that was as safe as a vault in the Batavian bank. Captain Williams, who took the game very seriously, went up on the air like a kite, and was only soothed by a promise from the umpire to come around some day and split a bottle.

Miller "Swipes" Two Bottles.
The arrival of E. M. Langers was awaited, as it was whispered that he was bringing a couple of cases to add to the club's stock, but at a late hour in the afternoon a plaintive telegram came from somewhere near Fountain City explaining that the Langers' auto had got stuck in the mud, or blown out the bulk head of the wingless, and he would not be able to arrive for a week. This was a great disappointment to Charlie Miller, who had a scheme on foot, but he finally managed to confiscate a couple of bottles from the club's stock, as reported by Mr. Gausmeyer, the chocolate man, who is thought to have been the original instigator of the deed.

Shipwrecked in Midstream.
As life savers "Duffield" Williams and "Duffield" Carroll passed their examinations with high honors, somebody got chesty with the engine, and the animal responded with a series of curious coughs and moans that indicated a high state of indignation. The owner of the boat not being aboard, everybody turned to Billy Funk. Billy approached the boat cautiously, and opened the door to investigate its insides, as Joe Skinner said he had something in his pocket that was good for man or beast if the trouble lay in the vicinity of the iter a tertia ad quartum ventriculum. This sounded reassuring to Billy and he stuck his finger in amid the mess of rods and things to see if it would bite. There came a blinding flash, and Billy withdrew his finger in a most abrupt and rude manner, plunging it madly in the river, and communing with himself strenuously upon the advisability of not monkeying with strange things on short acquaintance. Having done this the engine settled down into surly inaction, and the boat began to drift helplessly backward with the current. Everybody grew pale, and began to think of home and mother. Fred Ruplin gasped and gulped, clutched desperately at his heart, and inquired in an audible whisper if there were any life savers on board. When the boat was about two hundred yards from grounding on Pettibone park the Myki came chugging along, and after giving the unfortunate party a few words of advice, the sparker of some other arrangement was properly adjusted and the Sunbeam proceeded on its way.

A Terrible Moment
It was at this time that the life saving act was performed. After getting the engine under way, Engineer Funk smiled blandly, shook hands with himself, and suggested that it was time to grease the engine. President Fox came to his feet with a hoarse cry of alarm. "Great Scott," he cried, "there ain't a drop on board. We sent up everything by wagon this morning." Consternation! Solo by the engineer, and chorus by everybody. Heavy bass by Fred Ruplin, with his hand still clutching his agitated heart, and his eye fixed on the life saver.

Happily thought on the part of the two life savers, "Duffield" Williams, and "Duffield" Carroll. They smile and shake hands. They reach for a satchel. The eyes of the crowd are upon them. The eyes glisten. A bottle of Duffield is produced from the satchel, and all is joy. Twenty-six men in a boat can absorb a lot of joy, but fortunately the satchel was capacious. Resolution unanimously adopted that William and Carroll be recommended for the Carnegie medal for saving the lives of twenty-six in midstream on the Mississippi river.

And Then It Rained.
About that time it began to rain. This was not considered "auspicious" by anybody, not even the district attorney, as it plainly meant the end of the proposed ball game. Bergstrom, the old faithful, interviewed the bottle of Duffield again, however, and remarked that he

A STRONG INDORSEMENT OF NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

"Having suffered for years with a very obstinate case of dandruff and falling hair. I had almost despaired when a lady friend induced me to try Newbro's Herpicide. Now after a thorough trial I cannot say enough in praise of it. From a dull lustreless head of hair I have now a beautiful head of glossy hair which I can only thank Herpicide for."

"As good as Herpicide" is the familiar claim that is made for many so-called germ-destroying hair remedies. Newbro's Herpicide is the ORIGINAL remedy that kills the dandruff germ and its wonderful success and popularity account for the increasing number of imitations of it.

Why not get the original?

Substitutes are always disappointing.

didn't play ball anyway. On landing at the grounds everybody picked up good spirits, however, as the commissariat was promptly opened, and all sat down happily on the broad veranda of the club house and expressed a comfortable satisfaction over the plight of a young man and his best girl who were out in a row boat, and had been caught in midstream by the down pour. The banquet table was set at noon. President Fox presided. He insisted on making an address at stated intervals. The intervals were short. In glowing terms he pictured the wealth and prosperity, the brains, business ability, and culture represented in the club's membership, than which, as the district attorney afterward added, there is not the equal in any other club of the same size and character in the city. In other ways the president made a horticultural philanthropist out of himself, and finally confessed that it is good to hold the mirror up once in a while and indulge in a self admiration matinee. Al Langenbach sang an original song, written by himself the night before, in German, which in well rounded phrases and humorous vein set forth the fancies, foibles and well known characteristics of the members. The song was a brilliant effort, and made a home run hit. There was tremendous applause at the end of every verse, and at the conclusion Mr. Langenbach was given an ovation.

(Success.)

General Lawton's division was marching back to El Paso, there to take up a new position in the morning. General "Joe" Wheeler, in company with Major Creighton Webb, was standing at the edge of the road, watching the troops file past. Just as dawn was breaking a colored regiment came in sight. It gave evidence of being unusually tired.

Lawton's attention had been attracted to a corporal of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, a great six-foot negro, who, in addition to a couple of guns and two cartridge belts, loaded full, was carrying a dog. The soldier to whom the other gun belonged was limping beside his comrade.

Lawton halted the men. "Here, corporal," he called to the six-foot negro, "haven't you marched all night?"

"Yes, sir," said the corporal, saluting.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

CHIPPEWA FALLS—The Star mill dam in Duncan creek went out on Thursday, and caused considerable damage. The accident will cause a shut down of the mill for about one month.

RACINE—William Dillon, charged with the murder of Jacob C. Best of Milwaukee, will not be tried until the November term of circuit court. Application for bail is not to be made.

CHIPPEWA FALLS—A new county telephone company has been organized by the farmers of the town of Lafayette, called the Lake Hallie Telephone company, and will at once build a line eight miles long to this city.

CHIPPEWA FALLS—George Johnson, 13 years old, accidentally shot himself with a revolver, which he had been playing with and which he "didn't think was loaded." The bullet has not yet been located, and it is not known whether the boy will survive.

SHEBOYGAN—A daring burglar was interrupted while relieving a vest pocket of a large wad of bills and a gold watch in the residence of Dr. J. Hansen of Glen Beulah. Mrs. Hansen awoke, and her screams awakened her husband and scared the robber away.

WASHBURN—Over 400,000 feet of lumber owned by Mark Hessey and located at his millyard eight miles south of the town of Iron River was destroyed by fire during the week, the lumber piles catching from forest fires which have been raging in that vicinity for the last week. The lumber was valued at about $10,000.

JANESVILLE—William Dillon found dying near the St. Paul tracks Tuesday morning, has not regained consciousness and the physicians say he cannot live. Much criticism is heard of the poor commissioners' reported refusal to assume responsibility for ordering an operation which might have saved the man's life, and legal steps may be taken.

KENOSHA—Z. O. Simmons has sent out invitations for his annual banquet to the old soldiers of Kenosha, Milwaukee, Racine and Waukegan, which is to be held in Kenosha on the evening of June 22. The dinner will be served in one of the big factory buildings at the plant of the Simmons Manufacturing company and it will be the most pretentious yet given by Mr. Simmons.

KENOSHA—The great contest over the will of Nancy Glover came to a close on Thursday, when the court issued an order admitting the will to probate. Charles Joseph Glover of Chicago, who claimed to be a brother, but whose identity was unknown to any of the members of the Glover family, contested the will, but finally withdrew. The property is worth about $40,000.

JANESVILLE—Janesville society has been entertained the last two days by a sensational trial in which Wilson Lane, president of the Humane society, has been the complaining witness in an assault action brought against A. A. Russell, who owns a livery, bus and hack line and is agent for several transcontinental steamship lines. It is alleged Russell struck and knocked Lane down after a wordy argument brought about by criticism of Russell's horses.

BARABOO—Four thousand people attended the annual picnic given by the Baraboo Valley Modern Women association at Ableman. The address was delivered by Attorney Wolf of La Crosse. First prize in the drill contest was awarded to Baraboo camp, and second to Reedsburg camp. The First Wisconsin regiment band of Baraboo took first prize in the musical contest, with Ableman second. The next meeting will be held at Elroy.

RACINE—Miss Anna Jensen, a pretty domestic, may not be able to reach North Dakota and marry the man of her choice on the day set, owing to complications. She was employed by a south side woman, who gave her silverware for a wedding present. The lady demanded the presents back unless the girl agreed not to ask for wages due. This she agreed to do, but the presents and her trunk are still held and replevin suit is to be commenced. The girl is fearful that she can not reach her intended in time for the day set and that he may jilt her.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN—John

Rounds of Gays Mills was brought to this city and bound over to the circuit court under $200 bail on the charge of attempting to kill Mrs. Paul Pitzenberger. A dispute arose between the man and the woman as Rounds attempted to nail up a fence through which the woman had been accustomed to go to a well which a number of neighbors owned in common. When the woman, who was at the time under smallpox quarantine, interfered, Rounds crossed over into her yard and hit her on the head with a hammer, fracturing the skull, and causing hemorrhage of the left ear. The woman is recovering.

TAKE JUDGE FOR HOLY JUMPER

WAUKESHA, Wis., June 15.—Judge A. B. Rogan of Oconomowoc, Thursday called at the jail to see a client confined on the second floor, which is also occupied by the seven "holy jumpers" serving ten days for disorderly conduct. When his interview was concluded Judge Rogan rapped on the door. Being anxious to get to court he began to shout to attract attention. The members of the strange sect also commenced to jump and shout and held a regulation "jumper" meeting. Finally Judge Rogan's voice was recognized and he was released by the turnkey.

UNITED COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS IN ANNUAL SESSION

HOLD A MONSTER PARADE

Fair Weather Brings Big Results in Attendance and Milwaukee Seeks Next Meet

APPLETON, Wis., June 14.—The annual state convention of the Wisconsin United Commercial Travelers opened yesterday with the best weather of the year.

The grand council was called to order at the city hall at 9 o'clock. At 11 o'clock Mayor David Hammell delivered the address of welcome and was followed by Walter Ferguson in behalf of the Appleton council. Acting Grand Councilor M. J. Sullivan of Milwaukee made the response. This afternoon at 3 o'clock the visiting ladies were given a reception at the Harmonie hall by the ladies of the Appleton council. At 4:30 o'clock a street parade, headed by Col. N. E. Morgan and his aides, all officers of the Second regiment was held, in which 1,200 participated. There were eight bands and the Milwaukee drum corps in line.

Last night the annual ball was held at the Co. G armory with the banquet served in the old armory across the street. This morning the business sessions will close and in the afternoon all the visitors will be taken in launches to Brighton Beach on Lake Winnebago, where a picnic will be held.

It is generally conceded that M. J. Sullivan of Milwaukee will be elected grand councilor and a strong fight is being made by Appleton members to land grand secretary for Walter Ferguson. It is impossible to tell whether Milwaukee or Fond du Lac will get the next convention, although talk last night appeared to be in favor of Milwaukee.

OSHKOSH LID IS LOST

Bacchus Is King and Venus Queen Says Pastor

OSHKOSH, Wis., June 15.—The license that prevailed here during the Eagles' convention has brought forth a riotous protest. One of the most spirited is that of the Rev. Augustus Marshall Ayers, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

His denunciation is voiced in this open letter: "I have lived in Oshkosh for three years and have not before expressed my opinion of city affairs. I regret to do so now, but the outburst of Wednesday night calls for vigorous protest from some one, even though I run the risk of getting out of the class of 'sensible ministers' and into the ranks of the 'fanatics.' "I am sure that I speak for hundreds of Oshkosh citizens as well as for a large percentage of our visitors at the Eagle convention.

Bacchus and Venus Ruled—"The orgy of Wednesday night was the most disgraceful affair ever permitted in any civilized community. It was a saturnalia—a debauch. Bacchus was king; Venus, queen, and lust reigned."

"The lowest element of society in Oshkosh and outside had full swing to indulge its beastliness. Thousands of young men and women saw law and order trampled under foot, and the effect of the continuous all night debauch unchecked and unhindered, will give Oshkosh a setback with decent people for years."

"The proverbial lawlessness of Cripple Creek and Deadwood in their wildest days was outdone by Oshkosh, and not a hand was lifted to maintain even a semblance of peace and order."

YOUNG ASSEMBLYMAN TO WED

MADISON, Wis., June 15.—Members of the assembly have received an invitation to the wedding reception of Miss Bessie Anna Stockwell and Assemblyman John F. Baker, Friday evening, June 21, at Alma Center. The ceremony will be held in Minneapolis the day previous. Mr. Baker is the youngest member of the assembly and a law student at the university.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 15.—After being dragged for more than a block by a runaway horse, one foot being caught in a stirrup, Henry La Grange, aged 18, living at 624 Broadway, was saved from death late yesterday afternoon by the breaking of the saddle girth.

CECIL IS FAVORED BY BROTHER-IN-LAW

WITNESSES IN FAMOUS MURDER TRIAL TELL OF CONFLICT

PRISONER WARNED GUTHRIE

Questioning Brings Out Many Facts Which Will Aid the Defense in Justifying Cecil.

GREEN BAY, Wis., June 15.—The testimony which Mike Pashek, the star witness for the state in the Cecil murder trial gave Tuesday in the circuit court, was shaken today by Lee Porterfield, a brother-in-law of the defendant.

Porterfield stated that he questioned Pashek the day after the alleged murder of Roy Guthrie, and Pashek said that he heard Cecil warn Guthrie not to come near him, and that Guthrie started after Cecil before the mill foreman dealt the first blow.

W. R. Smith and Otto Ansonge testified that they saw Cecil strike the blow and saw him tackle Under Sheriff Johnson, hold him down and curse him for interfering in the fight between Burns and Morris.

Guthrie Followed Cecil.

They further testified that Cecil backed away when he hit Guthrie, and that Guthrie started after Cecil. Smith said it occurred to him then that because of the small size of the stick, and because of Guthrie's proportions, he being six feet tall and muscular, that Cecil would have a hard time in defending himself.

William Petty, Henry Grady and William Seipold testified that Guthrie pushed Cecil back about eight feet with arms drawn back in a threatening attitude.

Cecil Gave Warning.

He witnesses said that Cecil picked up a stick and Guthrie followed him, when Cecil hit Guthrie over the head. The witnesses said that Guthrie arose immediately after the first blow and started at Cecil, walking sixteen or eighteen feet toward him. They further testified that Cecil uttered these words: "Stand back, or I'll strike you."

DO NOT WANT SERMON

Graduates Say Words of Preacher Are Stale

RACINE, Wis., June 15.—At the senior class meeting of the high school when final arrangements for commencement week were discussed, a number of the class cast a bomb shell by starting a crusade against having a sermon. They didn't want a sermon and declared that they were always dry and musty and contained only a reiteration of the excellent advice that had been given for the past years, and were altogether out of the spirit of commencement.

A caucus developed a surprising amount of strength and a final vote showed a large majority of the class willing to dispense with the evening of ministerial advice, a feature which has been considered a part of the commencement for many years.

MANY PEOPLE WANT HELP

Fifty-three Given Employment During Past Week—Needs Twenty Men to Go to Kilbourn

Labor is scarce, in fact the supply will not equal the demand, says Thomas McMullen, superintendent of the Wisconsin Free Employment bureau, whose office is located in the city hall. This is a direct indication that the city is prosperous, or else there are many who prefer to rest rather than work. Mr. McMullen has many inquiries from different sources as to whether he can supply men for various kinds of work. He is now in need of twenty men to go to work at Kilbourn City, where a dam is being constructed, but he has not been able to find the labor although the pay is good and the company will pay the transportation from this city to Kilbourn City.

Mr. McMullen states that there is more demand for farm help and common labor than anything else. The farmers are looking for hands to assist them, but the results are not very encouraging. Mr. McMullen's report for the past week, showing the positions filled through his office, follows:

Male help—	Female help—
Clerk.....1	Domestics.....5
Factory hands 6	Factory girls...3
Laborers.....30	Kitchen girls...1
Machinists...1	Scrub woman...1
Teamsters...2	Wash woman...1

This is the biographical sketch of Gottlieb Bosshard: Gottlieb Bosshard was born in Switzerland August 14, 1846. Mr. Bosshard came to this country in 1854 with his uncle, John Bosshard. He was a town treasurer and assessor a few years and later agent for the Shelby Mutual Fire Insurance company in which he did a large business. He was married Oct. 1, 1858, to Minnie Saxer, a daughter of Peter Saxer, who died in 1875. They had nine children, six of whom survive, viz: Albert G. Amelia, William, Louisa and Hulda. The funeral of Mr. Bosshard took place at the late home of the deceased Monday afternoon and was conducted by Rev. S. L. McKee of West Salem, and E. Koehler. The Bryan quartet and the Frohmann Singing society of La Crosse, sang at the home, and the latter society also sang at the grave. The day was an inclement one, but a large crowd braved the storm to pay their last tribute of respect to the deceased. The pallbearers were: William Smith, Oscar Hussa, John Darms, John Pedersen. G. Bosshard was 71 years of age.

GOLDEN NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

THE LAW AND THE ANTHRACITE TRUST

Utmost care and deliberation have certainly characterized every step of the administration in the case of the consumers against the anthracite coal companies and the coal-carrying railroads. The suit that has just been instituted against the alleged trust in the federal circuit court at Philadelphia is no "bolt from the blue." It is the result of an investigation which the department of justice undertook last summer, and in which, for a time, it had the legal assistance of the present Governor of New York. That investigation, it is notorious, was necessary to determine once for all the truth or falsity of the charges that had been long current regarding the organization, methods and mutual relations of the coal roads and the coal companies.

It was—and is—generally believed that the anthracite combination involved a plain violation of the national and state anti-trust laws. The average consumer has seen evidence of such unlawful combination and law violation in the extraordinary regularity of the ups and downs of prices. The independent operators have bitterly complained of discrimination and relentless persecution on the part of the coal-carrying roads, common carriers in law.

Such widespread beliefs, suspicions and accusations could not fail to breed unrest, agitation and that uncertainty that is so injurious to trade and commerce. It was high time the legal questions in the case should be judicially considered in the interest of all concerned.

The government's bill charges that the defendants control the means of transportation to tidewater and 75 per cent of the coal output; that they have conspired to prevent competition and maintain prices; that they have imposed restraints on the independent operators and have established a practically complete monopoly. The dissolution of the alleged combination and the cancellation of certain contracts is asked by the government.

If the government's law is sound it will win. If the operators, who insist that they have done nothing illegal, are right, they should welcome the opportunity of disposing of the charges of contumacy and persistent lawbreaking which even men like Mr. Olney and political conventions have leveled at them.

She: "What do you think of his execution?"
He: "I'm in favor of it."

MAKING A BALLOON.

Precautions Taken to Keep the Gas Bag From Destruction.

It may interest the reader to hear something about the construction of a big modern balloon and its equipments. It is made of what is known as balloon cloth, which sometimes is of silk and is sewed in small sections of about a yard square, so that if one of the sections should burst the whole balloon would not collapse and destroy the aeronaut.

At the top of the bag is the valve to let the gas out when one wishes to descend. A rope for opening it runs from this valve through the center of the balloon to the operator in the basket. The balloon is filled through the neck, and this is left always open, so that when the gas expands from the heat of the sun or the lesser pressure of high altitudes the gas may escape and not burst the envelope.

As soon as the balloon is sewed together it is blown full of air and given three coats of varnish. Each coat must be allowed to dry thoroughly before the next is applied, or else they would never become perfectly dry, and the balloon would be likely to be destroyed at any minute from spontaneous combustion. This spontaneous combustion is not a bursting into flame, but a kind of exceedingly quick dry rot. I myself have lost three balloons through it. Once in my factory we were looking at a beauty when some one sniffed the air and remarked, "Thomas' balloon is gone." And so it proved to be. Five minutes saw it destroyed—rotten so that you could poke your finger through it.

Sometimes the balloon is so affected in only a few sections, and a man may make an ascension thinking his balloon is all right. Protected by the fine netting which envelops the balloon itself, he may even get up to some height before discovering his danger. In former times there were many fatal accidents from this cause.

When a balloon is packed, talcum or some other powder is sprinkled over the folds to keep them from adhering to each other. If this is neglected the balloon will be ruined, especially in hot weather.

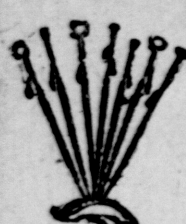

As I said, a fine netting covers the balloon proper both to strengthen it and to carry the weight of the basket and its contents. All the strands of the netting come together in the "contrasting ring." Just above the basket, in which the aeronaut stands. The anchor and guide ropes as well as the basket are fastened to this concentrating ring.

All modern balloons, besides the valve, have a rip cord fastened to a long patch sewed in the envelope, by means of which the balloon can be cut in two and brought to earth instantly. This is never used except in case of extreme emergency and where the basket is within ten or fifteen feet of the ground.—Dr. J. P. Thomas in Appleton's.

Strange that even when a man is married and has freckles on his face or is bald, that he still thinks girls should like him.
